

The tinker took the tanuki to the temple.

That night the tinker was awakened by the sound of crying.

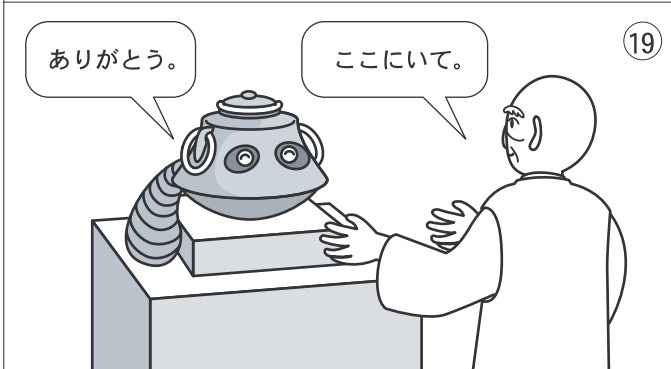

At the temple

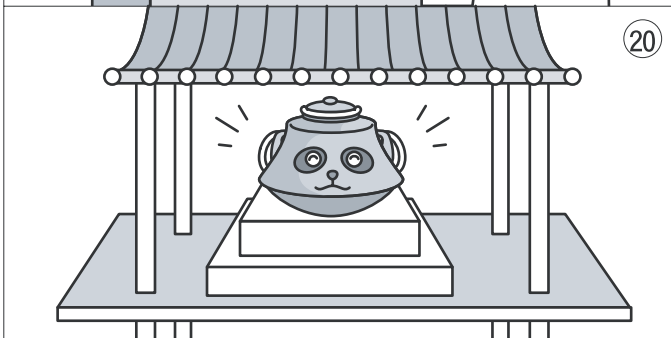

The tanuki begged the tinker not to sell him, offering to dance in the marketplace.

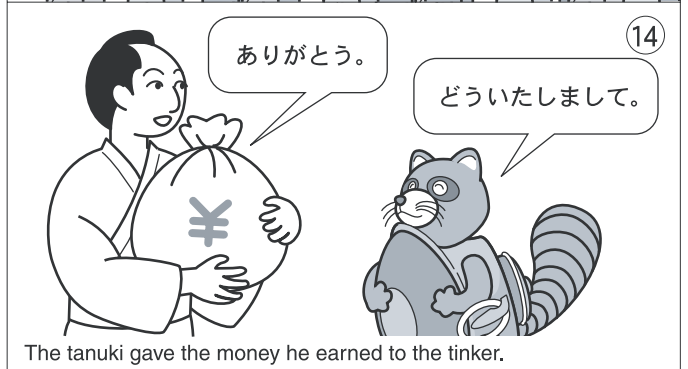

The priest agreed to look after the tanuki.

The tanuki gave the money he earned to the tinker.

The teakettle brought happiness to many worshippers.

The tanuki wanted to be taken to the temple to live.